

Provider guide to RACF service provision

For general practitioners currently or interested in providing care to RACF residents

Northern Queensland Primary Health Network (NQPHN) invites general practitioners (GPs) to one of two webinars about how to ensure the GP service you provide to residential aged care facilities (RACFs) can continue and be sustained over a long period of time.

Join AGPAL subject matter expert Dr Paresh Dawda to learn sustainable models of business in the RACF and aged care service provision.

The webinar will cover:

- an overview of different sustainable business models for RACF and aged care service provision
- accessing eligible MBS billing for those services, including PIP QI activities
- continuous quality improvement and PIP QI activities that you can do to improve health outcomes for older Australians and enhance service provision.

This webinar is a part of the NQPHN Aged Care GP Support and Capacity Building Initiative.
